

Environment and Science Club

In today's busy life, very few people have the time or the compassion to stop and appreciate the environment, let alone protect it. Aware of this, the students of Bay View High School College Campus do their part for the environment by establishing the "Environment and Science Club".

To spread awareness amongst the youth about the threats facing our environment, we first decide to highlight the importance of recycling and conservation. To do this, members of the club collected and painted recycle bins and put up handmade posters made from recycled materials around the school. As our second project, members were taken to the Endangered Species Turtle hatchery and our third project was a mangrove planting trip. All three projects were very successful and rewarding experiences. Due to the success of these events, the Environment and Science Club is one of the most popular clubs amongst the students of BVHS.
